A group of diverse professionals are seated in a modern office environment, likely attending a meeting or training session. In the center, a man with a beard and glasses, wearing a grey cardigan, has his right hand raised high, indicating he wants to ask a question or make a point. To his left, a woman with long dark hair is looking towards him. Behind them, other participants are visible, some looking forward and others slightly to the side. The background features large windows with green plants and a bookshelf. The overall atmosphere is professional and collaborative.

TODAY'S WEBINAR

- Leadership and its critical importance in today's world
- The 7 essential leadership qualities
- Defining, and solving, the Leadership Perception Gap
- Simple strategies to succeed immediately
- Q&A

A business, successful or not, is merely a reflection of the character of its leadership

S Truett-Cathy

A lack of strong leadership can have a profoundly negative impact:

- Loss of profits
- Poor performance
- Less innovation
- Change doesn't stick
- Projects veer off-course, initiatives languish, and service levels slip
- Employee engagement erodes
- Good people leave the company
- Competitors win
- Businesses fail

It's horrible!!!

The 'new normal'

- How we work has changed forever
- Rapid change is a core competency
- Resilience is key
- Rapid evolution of the employee experience

...and all represent changes leaders must address:

The Leadership Perception Gap

The Leadership Perception Gap: the difference between the perception executives have of the effectiveness of their organisation's leaders, and the perception of their employees.

When the perceptions differ too greatly, the resulting gap represents a real impediment to the successful execution of company initiatives.

THE 7 CRITICAL QUALITIES LEADERS WILL NEED IN A POST-COVID WORLD

COURAGE

Courageous leaders *embrace the good,
the bad and the ugly*

COURAGE

Scarcity

- I bury my head in the sand, and hope problems simply go away
- I avoid confrontation
- I don't enjoy leading people
- "It's my way or the highway"
- I'm above getting feedback from subordinates

Abundance

- I don't believe ignorance is a strategy
- I align difficult decisions with values
- I embrace accountability
- I'm confident in a crisis
- I seek and accept constructive feedback

The impact of a courageous leader

Courageous leaders bring energy and excitement to the organisations they lead, increasing engagement, productivity and performance.

Resulting employee impact: I am confident in my leader because he/she makes good, fair decisions and is open to receiving honest feedback from employees

CREDIBILITY

Credible leaders walk the talk

CREDIBILITY

Scarcity

- I make the rules, I don't follow them
- Do as I say, not as I do
- I'm entitled to special privileges
- I delegate more work than they do
- I'm happy to take credit I haven't earned

Abundance

- I show up the same way they expect others to
- I don't ask others to do what I wouldn't do myself
- I live the company's value and purpose
- I enjoy leading people
- I'm energised by growing my team/s and developing people

The impact of a credible leader

The reciprocal energy makes the leader's job easier. In turn, they (and the business) become more productive, creating a self-fulfilling prophecy cycle.

Resulting employee impact: My leader motivates me by leading by example and displaying the same standards he/she expects from employees.

CONSISTENCY

Consistent leaders are aligned with the company's purpose and strategy

CONSISTENCY

Scarcity

- I march to the beat of my own drum
- I prefer to be spontaneous and “shoot from the hip” when coaching or giving feedback
- I focus my team on the things I believe are most important for my career development.

Abundance

- The direction I provide is aligned with the company's broader goals
- I track and measure progress, and share it with my team
- My communications amplify the company's message
- I regularly communicate the company goals - and our progress toward them – to my team.

The impact of a consistent leader

Consistent leaders lead team that deliver consistent results.

Resulting employee impact: I consistently have productive two-way review meetings with my leader and as a result, I understand how my role contributes to the business's goals.

CONFIDENCE

Confident leaders believe
outcomes win over inputs

CONFIDENCE

Scarcity

- If I'm not on people 24/7, I won't get the best work from them
- If I know how everything is being done every single step of the way, I know it will be right
- If I allow team members flexibility, chaos will ensue.

Abundance

- I trust my team to get the job done without the need for micromanaging
- I consistently practice accountability-based leadership with team members, focusing on outcomes rather than inputs
- I understand the value of other peoples' input and welcomes it.

The impact of a confident leader

Leaders' time is spent less on micro-managing and the day-to-day, more on leading, providing clarity/direction, coaching, and developing their teams. Employees' capabilities grow and the business becomes far more self-managing.

Resulting employee impact: There is mutual trust between me and my leader. I am trusted to get my job done without micromanagement knowing I can call on my leader's support when I need it.

CONNECTION

Connected leaders have a one purpose, one team mindset

CONNECTION

Scarcity

- I don't always remember team members' names
- The team don't need to know about the big stuff, they just need to worry about the small things they're doing
- I think purpose and values are just business mumbo-jumbo that get in the way of getting on with it.

Abundance

- I'm 'in touch' with what's going on
- I understand my employees' objectives and relate these to the broader company goals
- I communicate the "big picture" to employees, ensuring everyone understands how their role contributes.

The impact of a connected leader

Connected leaders enjoy strong relationships with team members and open lines of communication which enable them to know what's going on across the organisation without resorting to micromanagement.

Resulting employee impact: My leader demonstrates enthusiasm for our Purpose and is a strong communicator who keeps employees up to date with progress and news.

CARING

Caring leaders believe that when everybody grows, everyone wins

CARING

Scarcity

- I'm here to get a job done, not pay attention to employees' lives
- I use fear and intimidation as a management tactic
- I'm not worried about employee retention – you can always hire someone else.

Abundance

- I'm sensitive and efficient when dealing with business issues that impact employees, never forgetting the human side of the business
- I see people as individuals, not a commodity
- I provide mentorship to enable people to grow and be the best they can be
- I place a premium upon employees' personal wellbeing.

The impact of a caring leader

By creating an environment that encourages cooperation and helping others, caring leaders develop their people, continually raising the bar on their teams' skills - and everybody wins.

Resulting employee impact: My leader treats me as a valued team member and actively seeks to help my personal development.

COMMITMENT

Committed leaders are focused on the future

COMMITMENT

Scarcity

- I'm using the role as a stepping-stone and are only focused on the short term
- I self-promote and take credit from others
- I focus on low hanging fruit and easy wins, rather than tackling more complex projects that move the business forward.

Abundance

- I'm fully invested in the business, department and team
- I focus intentionally on the future, making improvements and communicating ongoing plans
- I'm consistently willing to go above and beyond in order to help the business and the individuals within it thrive.

The impact of a committed leader:

Focused on the future and committed to the company and its employees, committed leaders inspire loyalty and confidence from employees, who themselves become more personally invested in the company's success.

Resulting employee impact: My leader inspires confidence in me by demonstrating his/her commitment to the future success of the business.

PERCEPTION IS REALITY... ESPECIALLY FOR LEADERS

Chances are good you start each day looking in the mirror before heading to the office or joining the first video conference of the morning. But when's the last time you reflected on yourself more deeply as a leader? Self-reflection is a crucially important tool for leaders, and the self-awareness it produces can be a superpower for those who challenge themselves to continually improve. This simple worksheet will help you assess yourself against six foundational leadership skills, and help you find where you have the opportunity to improve.

How to use this worksheet: Reflect on each leadership skill below, and assess how and to what degree you display the traits associated with each. Give yourself an honest score. Next identify the two or three dimensions where you'd like to make progress, and make them your focus for the next 90 days.

LEADERSHIP SKILL	LOOKS LIKE	CURRENT SCORE	DESIRED SCORE	ACTIONS TO TAKE

4 CRITICAL QUESTIONS

- How would you score yourself?
- How would you score your leaders?
- How would your leaders score themselves?
- How would your employees score their leaders?

We can't predict the future, but if we can accurately learn from the past, we can confidently act in the present and thrive in the future.

With accurate data you can close the perception gap.
